WHERE WATER IS COSTLY. Little of the Precious Fluid is Wasted in Death Vakey.

nearest water supply of which Death valley camp could even occa sionally avail itself was at Ash Mead-Twenty-mule trail between Johnny and Death valley, writes David Brandon in The World To-Day. Kelly's well, pre-viously mentioned, provided better water, but it had to be hauled farther, much of the way up a heavy grade, and the tremendous daily strain on that oasis by the desert mule skin ners, freighters, left-little to spare. Water had to be hauled into camp in barrels, therefore, on six, eight, ten and twelve-team wagons, and the supply on hand was always poefully inadequate. At best, water cost ten dollars-a barrel, generally $15; often the and by no means infrequently a glass ful required $50 cents. A "body snatcher," as the citizen of Death valley is called, we were told, makes a basin of water go far. Part of it fills the coffee pot; the remainder, face and hands having been washed in it several times, suffices for the small laundry necessities and is then given to the burro to drink,

They govern through representatives For their protection they have by direct legislation created constitutions fettering the power of their representatives and establishing safeguards by which they are secure in their personal liberty and in the results of their thrift. We note with satisfaction the in-

The people have become in tolerant of such traitorous representation. And it is entirely within their power to put a stop to it altogether Political leaders who have performed the function of clearing-houses for legislation, and who while posing as party workers have served under a retainer of special interests, careless alike of party principles or public justice, are passing from the stage. The people demand adership, and parties need effective organization to ad vance their principles.

But the time is rapidly passing when any one-can-long maintain a position of wide political influence who is under suspicion of maintaining a double allegiance.

By Justice David Brewer.

Some years ago Lord Kelvin, that master mind of British science, remarked to my uncle, the late Henry Field-I cannot quote his exthis: "Great as have been the discoveries of the past fifty years, those that are coming will make the next half century as far ahead of the last as it was in advance of the pre vious period. We are on the brink of discoveries greater than have been dreamed of, and of highest importance to mankind." I can see the forerunners of some of the marvels that are in store for us. What a weird thing is-wireless telegraphy, sending our messages mysteriously over the sea! The airship seems to be a practical possibility of The telegraph and the telephone ready have enabled us to accomplish a valuable saving of time. Think what it means, this one thing of saving time in our human existence. It gives us more opportunity to think, to study, to work, to accumulate to carry on trade and commerce, and more time also to devote to helping others and promoting peace and happiness-in the world.

The merchant of the past was confined principally to hia isolated community. The merchant of the future may deal with the whole world, reaching out into every country, buying, selling, trading in faraway lands, car eying on enormous transactions that could not be undertaken but for the inventions of science that save his time at home and bring the other side of the world intantaneously to his door

We have millionaires to-day and billionaires to-morrow. Perhaps we shall have trillionaires next. Let us have them if their wealth is used for increasing the welfare and the happiness of humanity. I do not view with alarm the accumulation of wealth, because I believe that the spirit of humanity and the sense of responsibility is growing among us.

YOUNG MAN'S SALARY NOT MAIN THING.

By John A. Howland.

Thousands of young men are starting out in life with the salary magnet the only at-traction to them. "A job" that shall pay suf-ticlently to meet his small necessities and pay for as many, of the small luxuries of the time as the young man feels more and more are parcel of his necessities becomes at once the vonng man's objective nim.

I have a business acquaintance who started in life as a clerk in a general store in a small town He could have had more money in another store whose specialty was should goods of all kinds. He decided to stay by the better man at the smaller salary, with the result that to-day in his own business, aggregating millions annually, he says that some of the basic principles of his house were found in the methods of that country there he first sold goods for an honest man

With the young man at the outset this salary scens all important. To the extent that it shall not humble his pride to have to accept so little, this salary has distinct bearing. But as between $1 and $2 on the alary roll, many a young man who in the beginningtved_well on half as much finds himself-in-debt-wit twice the money in his pay envelope. JUDGE JETER C. PRITCHARD.

orth Carolina Jurist Involved in State's Rights Controversy. A temporary truce was established in North Carolina where governmental adjustment of railroad rates brought on a clash between Federal and State authorities. The clash was of widespread interest because it not only involved the arrest of prominent rallroad wen, but it threatened to raise a question of State rights to be fought out in the next Presidential election. North Carolina made a 24-cent uniform passenger rate. This was violated by two ticket agents, whereupon were arrested and sent to Jall for thirty days. Appeal was made to Federnt Indge Jeter C. Pritchard, who discharged the two men and declared, the renalty clause of the rate law unconstitutional. The Pritchard decision was handed down despite the request of Governor Glenn for delay until the legal authorities of the State could be beard. At the same time Governor Glenn ordered Superior Court Solicitor Brown to resist to the utmost the re-lease of the defendants, promising armed protection to the State officers, and thus precipitating a direct conflict of-authority-between the Federal courtand the State of North Carolina.

With a view to adjusting this conflet of authorities, Assistant Attorney

This proposition was rejected by Governor Glenn promptly, as involving his surrender to the Federal Court. He said he would not consider any offer from the other side until the railroad had Federal Courts had recognized the right of the State to institute suits and to prosecute them under the existing -He ordered other pres be proceeded with, saying that he would use every lawful means to enforce the laws of the Stater. However, after President Finley of the Southern railway permitted himself to be arrested a compromise was reached whereby all questions under controversy are to go to the higher courts for settlement and the railroad agrees to put the new rates into effect.

Judge Pritchard formerly served eight years in the United States Senate, having been elected on th publican-Populist fushion ticket. At the end of his term he was appointed by President Rooscaelt to the Supreme bench of the District of Columbia, and one year later was elevated to the Circuit Court.

as hay crops, are also fodder crops They mature very quickly, and may be grown in the summer. Sorghum which is coming more into use, is also an excellent fodder crop, the seed being small and the plants easily grown in a short interval. There are several reasons for growing fodder crops. They fill a want in some sections, can b grown in a short time, and are a defense against an insufficient hay crop. Such crops, however, should be cut at the proper time, and should not be allowed to remain on the field a day longer than is necessary. In the case of oats the grain must not become hard nor the straw turn vellow. Small Counties Win in Selection of Candidates for Constitutional Convention.

The convention to select three can didates to sit in the body that shall re vise Michigan's constitution was pulled off at Gladwin Tuesday as scheduled. Every delegate from the nine counties was on tap. The importance of the work to be done impressed each with a sense of gravity. All counties except Oscoda and Ogemaw had a favorite son to push to the front. It was well understood before the clans gathered for combat that Iosco, Clare and Gladwin had pooled to pilfer the nominate. To get the necessary two seemed an easy proposition. Any politician would have predicted it impossible to unite five minor counties with Missaukee's seven delegates. with four aspirants for place, into an unbreakable opposition to Iosco's and Clare's insatiate greed for office and political domination, But Senator Senator Doherty, Denn Alward. #### ALCOHOL POWER AGE.

Thousands of Parmers Soon Will Be Operating Small Plants.
The farmers of the United States are taking great interest in the manufacture of denatured alcohol, made possible to them by the action of the last Congress, which removed the disabilities of small producers. Thousands of inquiries are coming to the government from farmers in every section as to the new law and regulations. These are being answered as fast as they come in, and not only this but every farmer who writes is sup-plied with a process for making the alco-hol and laying it on the market for 4-cents a gallon, including a profit of nearly 2 cents. The uses to which denatured alcohol may be put are many. It may be used for power wherever gasoline is now being used and it is believed that its cheapness will force gasoline off the market as soon as the farmers begin to put be used for running cars that are now being operated by selectricity. Engines specially constructed for its use are being made by several firms, and these may be applied to any kind of machinery from farm implements to steamboats. Heretofore denatured alcohol has been kept off, the market by a provision in the United States revenue act which required the presence of a United States officer wherever it is manufactured, and the manufac turer was compelled to pay a revenue sufficient to meet the officer's salary. This provision necessarily operated in favor of the big manufacturer, and kept farmers out of the business entirely. Congress repealed the provision requiring the pres nce of a United States official at the plants, putting each and every small man-yfacturer on his honor to make proper returns, to the government, including a small tax. ### SPREAD OF STRIKE.

ORDER FOR GENERAL WALK-OUT PROMULGATED.

Call to "Quit" Includes All Commer cial Telegraphers in United States and Canada - Order, However Adds Few Recruits to Strikers.

The general strike order to all commercial telegraphers not working under union agreements, which was issued by President Sylvester J. Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America-nt-1:30 o'clock-Friday-morning, had produced almost no change in the situation Saturday afternoon, twenty-four hours after it had been promul In fact the general order, heralded in advance as the crowning feature of the strike, hardly created a ripple in Chicago, according to a correspondent The force of the Chicago and Milwau kee Telegraph Company, which operates fan public business between the Chleago Board of Trade and the Milwaukee grain exchange, six men all told, went out and five men employed on-leased wires by Hulburd, Warren & Chandler, a brokerage house, also left their keys. The situation in the stockyards and along the LaSalle street district otherwise was undisturbed, and there were no new developments in the strife between the union and the two the Postal.

All the reports which came in to Chicago over the wires of the Associated Press and through other sources outside of the union were to the effect thatthere had been no change in the situation. Nevertheless union members were unanimous in declaring that the try would feel the effect of Small's or-

Advices from New York and Boston said the order for a general strike had met with no response from the men at the Postal offices or those in the Associated Press. The officials of the two big companies said they had failed to 1812-Madrid entered by Wellington and any effect on the situation. The extension of communication to the more remote and smaller towns was proceed ing rapidly and business was being idyed expeditiously

It is estimated that hearly 15,000 men are on strike. The strike it is said, will be confined strictly to the commercial telegraphers. The railroad operators will lend their moral and financial support. There will be no sympathetic strike of railroad telegraphers, who are working under contract and will live up to their agree ments.

Cause of the Big Strike.

Higher wages, an eight-hour day, more comfortable working conditions and the free use of typewriters—these are the essential demands of the striking teleggraphers. Ever since the union was form gd, March 15, 1903, these have been principal nins, and in both the matter wages and working conditions substantial progress has been made. Much remains to be accomplished, however, in the way of securing further concessions from both the Western Union and Postal companies the strikers declare, before they will be satisfied.

In a letter addressed to Presiden Clowry of the Western Union company last May, President S. J. Smill of the union demanded for the operators

That the standard of wages be fixed and hat the increase of 10 per cent granted o some of the operators last March be o some of the operators last March be liven to all.

That clerks and other employes be re-numers of more liberally.

New Foundation Matho

The Literary Digest quotes from a foreign engineering paper the description of a-new-method of making foundations now used in all sorts of conditions.—It is known as the compressol system. It consists in making holes through the soft soil down-to-the hardpan by means of a tapering arm, which is forced down like a pile driver, and then filling these holes with stones and rubble in successive layers, each of which is firmly ranmeddown. The result is to produce a monolithic block of great strongth. No is removed in the boring of the shaft, the sides of which acquire great compactness.

By Rev. J. O. Davis I, therefore, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called -Ephesians iv: 1.

The greatest hindrance to the spread of the Christian religion is not the attacks of its open enemies, but the lax and often vicious lives of its professed adherents. The Christian religion is a call to life, not to the mere intellectual acceptance of a system of philosophy. however beautiful and inspiring teachings may be. The faith of the Christian in Jesus Christ must be shown by his living in a Christian man-

In the very early days of his ministry our blessed Lord laid down certain fundamental principles which were to The best lives are the lives that seek ever the best. We owe it not only to govern the lives of His disciples. #### YESTERDAY AND TO-MORROW. By Rev. Henry F. Cone.

"Forgetting the things wa hind, and stretching forward to the which are before."-Phill. ili., things

The regret is vain that looks not to reconstruction. The best expression of sorrow for yesterday's wrongdoing is service for to-day's right. It is a good thing-to-look back, but only that we may push forward. There is no consolution for the individual, no betterent for society, in the gospel that goe not beyond repentance.

There are many who are eating out-their own hearts with bitter repentings of past follies. The theer is driven from every day by the memory of old wrongdoing; they fairly are haunted by a fearsome-past. Perhaps, as a plainmatter of fact, their sins are not as gross as they seem; imagination has magnified them. But dwelling on them, poring over them, they have paralyzedtheir own possibilities of present improvement.

It is true that no man can undo his past. It is true, as many know in bit-terness and pain of spirit, that conthe hearts with the thorns that have grown from past sowing. But is there folly greater than that of the man or woman who permits regret for failing to prevent any attempt at rising again?

Every day is a new day. Every life may make new beginnings. All else is lost when hope is lost; the light fades from the eyes and the soul seems to perish within the man when he ceases to believe that he can make yet one more beginning. Heaven rejoices when we weep over our own wandering, but greater far is the joy when we arise and set our faces toward home again.

In the race of life many things may bring a man down, but he alone is responsible for it if he is both down and out. We, the competitors, may be ever rendy to cry "Failure," but somehow we know that eternal justice will pronounce no verdict till the course done, and eternal love ever is yearning to see each fallen one again upon his feet and pressing forward in the race.

In the school of life we may learn to forget the difficulties of the tasks once set before us, and even the disgrace when we failed at them in the loy of the strength that all the struggle of meeting and mastering those tasks has given. How feelish would be be who should refuse to tackle the larger problems of life because the little old slate on which he worked his sums in school is blurred with tear marks.

And so with our sorrows. Too many as though it made you alck

There is a great difference between the fragrant memory of days that in their passing seemed most bitter, between those mists through which loved faces smile out of death's shadows and the carefully preserved palls and trappings of our woe.

So, too, do we implifter our present with the cherishing of slights and injustices, malice and enmity, thought or done to us in days past. Memory and history easily become a chamber of horrors, a pit where dwell only foul and noisome things, and to-day's pleasure and to morrow's promise alike are lost in contemplation of yesterday's pain. God is ahead as well as behind. The universe is not heartless, a pitiless machine where past faults forever preclude the possibility of future perfec tion. The ever upspringing hope in the human breast is but the echo of the infinite, wooling us to new endeavors, calling men to arise and go to their Father. They go forward who look forward

A WHEATFIELD IN A. D. 1970.

Several distinguished scientists have recently pointed out that under the present conditions the world would in a short time be threatened with a serious bread familie. In a lecture at the Royal Institution, London, Professor Silvanus P. Thompson referred to this subject-showing that as the demand of the white races for wheat as a foodstuff increases the acreage devoted to wheat-growing increases, but at a less rapid rate, and being limited by climatic conditions will in a few years, perhaps less than thirty, be Then, as Sir William Crookes pointed out in his presientirely taken up. dential address in 1808, there will be a wheat familie unless the world's yield per acre (at present about 12.1 bushers on the average) can be ruised by the use of fertilizers. Of such fertilizers the chief is nitrate of soda exported from the filter beds in Chill. The demand for this has risen from 1,000,000 tons in 1892 to 1,543,120 tons in 1995, and the supply will at the present rate be exhausted in less than fifty years. Then the only chance of averting starvation lies, as Professor Crookes Bointed out; through the Cavendish, Crookes, Dewar, and Rayleigh had demonstrated inthe laboratory that nitrogen could be obtained from the atmosphere by pass ing air through an electric are flame. This process has now entered the commercial stage by the construction and successful operation of the Berkeland-Eyre works at Notoden in Norway, nitric acid and nitrate of lime being formed in large quantities. The latter is extremely useful as a fertilizer. Our artist has depicted the further mechanical and chemical means which the future may have to employ in the production of its dully bread. The huge ears of wheat can be seen growing in long glazed alleys while strange lights are blazing from many points.

The new building of Montgomer Ward & Co. in Chicago, Ill., is said to be the largest single building in that city for which a permit has ever been issued, and the claim is also made that it is the largest building in this coun try of re-enforced concrete. The structure is eight stories high, and each floor contains 140,000 square feet. The construction material required will comprise 12,000 piles, 100,000 barrels of cement and between 5.000 and 8.000 tons of steel re-enforcement. The build ing will have rall, water and tunnel transportation connections.

The transportation was accomplished by loading the mast on seven cars, the great column being supported by sters on the second and fifth cars. The bolsters were eighty five feet apart, and the mast was successfully transported n this manner from Liverpool to Plymouth. Considerable difficulty was experienced in turning some of the sharper curves of the line and traffic was interrupted for awhile at one or two

A Belgian agriculturist, Monsieur Le Breton, has recently made some experments with barbed wheat to determine the effectiveness of the defense which its barbs afford against the rayages of graminiferous birds. In the same field, near Antwerp, he sowed some barbed wheat and some Japhet wheat, which is without barbs. The Japhet variety grew rapidly, but every head was de spoiled by the birds before the grain could ripen, but the barbed variety was so well guarded by its array of miniature spears that the attacks of the same grain ripened in security. At the same time it was observed that the insectivorous birds were as busy capturing their prey among-the-barbed heads as among those that possessed no natural defenses.

On the lower course of the Casamance River in West Africa exists what a French writer has described as a "village of pelicans." The birds have been so mercilessly hunted that they avoid the presence of man, but in the neighborhood of their "village" they show comparatively little fear.
